The 4-H Dog Club Leaders, the University of Idaho Extension, Caribou County, and the United States Department of Agriculture are happy to offer the 4-H Dog Program to interested youth. Because dogs can be dangerous animals, working with them and around show areas, present risks and potential for accidents and losses. By allowing your child or children to participate in the 4-H Dog Program you agree to assume all risks to any minors under your guardianship, to yourself and to your possessions.

In order to enroll your child in the 4-H Dog Program, we require that you sign the following release of liability and negligence acknowledging that you recognize and accept the risks associated with the dog program. We also ask that you complete and return the confidential medical summary for your child/children and strongly urge you to have your child covered by medical insurance. If your dog(s) and equipment are valuable you should also cover them with insurance.

Please read this form carefully before signing it. A parent signature or legal guardian is required.
