The Regents of the University of Idaho (the legal name for the University of Idaho) is overseen by its governing board known as the Board of Regents of the University of Idaho, which is sometimes shortened to Board of Regents. The same people who make up the Board of Regents also make up the Idaho State Board of Education, which has governing authority over Idaho's other public educational institutions. This group as a whole is often referred to as the State Board of Education and Board of Regents of the University of Idaho. This chart reflects only the interactions with the University of Idaho. The State Board of Education has many additional components, committees and dealings statewide.
